CENTRE FOR FOOD (CFF)

The W. Galen Weston Centre for Food (CFF) is Durham Region's first-ever post-secondary presence focused on the field-to-fork concept, which is based on the harvesting, storing, processing, packaging, sale and consumption of food – in particular the production of local food for local consumers.

Durham College has adopted this concept and applied it to a diverse range of programs that crossover traditional academic schools, with the curriculum, faculty expertise and equipment required to implement field to fork, built into several of the college's programs.

The CFF is also home to a number of hospitality-focused programs from Special Events Management and Hospitality Skills to Culinary Management and Advanced Baking and Pastry Arts. Whether you want to be in the kitchen, in the field or running the show, the CFF has you covered.

“Enrolling in the Paralegal program at Durham College has been one of my best decisions so far. Having the support and guidance of the teachers, be it with assignments, tests, or mock trials, it’s clear to see that the faculty work very hard to inspire students to succeed.

My goal once I graduate is to work in small claims court and take on cases related to resident and landlord tenancy as well as traffic ticketing cases.”

“The General Arts and Science program has given me the confidence and clarity in the career path I have always wanted to take. It’s a program that caters to all – those who are uncertain and those who are certain of what they want to do. I would highly recommend it because it not only opens up many opportunities, it also gives you the foundation for a great career.”
